

Headphones for Computer Labs in Tutoring Center Anamarie Navarro, Chabot College

The Learning Connection program offers various tutoring services and the LC center is a place for students to study before and after appointments. In our center we have 2 computer labs. One of the most requested items are headphones for students to use inside our labs. The CARE grant provided fold-able headphones for students to use in our center. This give students the opportunity to listen to podcasts, audiobooks online, and videos for their research assignments. For many of our ESL students that come to our center, they often like to listen to audiobooks while they read to improve their pronunciation. These headphones fold for better storage, are sturdy, and are easy to clean. We expect to use these headphones for years to come and to be appreciated by students, tutors, and staff.
